

Nellie KONNIKOV

President of the International Society of Dermatology.

She is Clinical Professor of Dermatology at Boston University and Tufts Schools of Medicine, United States.

She received her initial dermatology training in Moscow, moved and accomplished Dermatology residency and Immunology fellowship in the USA. Prof. Konnikov devoted 35 years of her academic carrier to the patient care, clinical research, and training next generation of dermatologists from BU, Tufts, and Harvard Medical schools in clinical, laser, and surgical dermatology at Veterans Affairs hospitals in Boston. Prof. Konnikov is a former Chair of International Affairs committee at AAD, held several leadership positions and, currently, a member of executive, scientific, and advisory Boards of many Dermatological Societies around the world.

Prof. Konnikov had actively participated in training and mentoring international students, residents, and fellows from all over the world.