

Qianjin LU

Dr. Qianjin Lu is currently a Professor and Executive Director of Hospital for Skin Diseases (Institute of Dermatology), Chinese Academy of Medical Sciences and Peking Union Medical College; Professor and Director of Key Laboratory of Basic and Translational Research on Immune-Mediated Skin Diseases, Chinese Academy of Medical Sciences.

President of Chinese Society of Dermatology. His research focus is the epigenetics of autoimmune and inflammatory related skin diseases, including lupus, psoriasis and atopic dermatitis.

He has authored over 200 peer-reviewed manuscripts, book chapters and review articles including Lancet, JAMA, Blood, Nat Commun, J Clin Invest, Ann Rheum Dis and J Exp Med, etc. Dr. Lu is on the editorial board of several journals in his field, and has been appointed as an associate editor of Clinical Immunology, Experimental Dermatology.

He also provides clinical care and teaching in the dermatology, and has accumulated rich clinical experience in dermatology and especially in lupus and psoriasis.